BEVERAGE MENU

Welcome to Synthesis 2.0: A Wellness Journey

At Synthesis, we celebrate the profound connection between food, health, and harmony, inspired by the timeless wisdom of Huangdi Neijing (黄帝内经). Our culinary philosophy revolves around the principles of balance and natural healing, weaving together ancient traditions with modern sensibilities.

Through the art of food therapy, our menu is thoughtfully crafted to harmonize with the Five Elements—Wood, Fire, Earth, Metal, and Water—each offering unique flavors and healing properties. From revitalizing elixirs to nourishing entrees, every dish is designed to nurture the body, soothe the soul, and restore equilibrium. In addition to our delectable offerings, indulge in our specially crafted cocktails, each inspired by the Five Elements and infused with wellness-enhancing ingredients.

Thank you for joining us on this wellness journey at Synthesis. May your experience be a celebration of nourishment, vitality, and holistic harmony.

The Five Elements and Their Influence on Well-being

In Traditional Chinese Medicine (TCM), the Five Elements—Wood, Fire, Earth, Metal, and Water—serve as a foundational framework for understanding the interconnectedness of the natural world and our bodies.

Each element embodies specific qualities and energies that not only influence our physical, emotional, and spiritual well-being but also guide us in making mindful choices regarding our diet and nutrition.

By aligning our diet with the principles of the Five Elements, we can nourish our bodies in harmony with nature's rhythms, promoting optimal health and vitality. Whether it's choosing foods that resonate with the seasonal energies of each element or incorporating ingredients known for their specific healing properties, such as herbs, spices, fruits, vegetables, and whole grains, our dietary choices can play a profound role in supporting holistic wellness.

WOOD

LIVER | GALLBLADDER

The Wood element in TCM corresponds to the liver and gallbladder organs, representing the spring season and the color green. It governs growth, flexibility, and the smooth flow of Qi (energy) in the body.

What does being influenced by the Wood Element say about you?

When you're in balance, you're a kind-hearted soul who excels at creating clear visions, goals and plans, and can pride yourself on your decision-making skills.

Much like a tree, your tendency is to focus upwards and outwards. You're always striving for growth and expansion, and looking for new challenges to overcome.

You thrive under pressure and may have what's sometimes called a 'type A personality', meaning that you're hard-driven and hard-working. You may even have a tendency to overdo things on that front, so guard against making yourself unwell due to overwork. A balance of work, rest, play and adventure is essential for you to be at your best.

When you're out of balance, you may find yourself getting stressed easily, perhaps accompanied by tightness in the neck and shoulders and/or a tendency to clench your jaw or grind your teeth. You might also become irritable, prone to a bad temper, notice that you're not as decisive as usual or are more likely to overindulge in food or drink.

FIRE

HEART | SMALL INTESTINE

The Fire element in TCM is associated with the heart and small intestine organs. It governs functions related to enthusiasm, joy, warmth, and transformation.

What does being influenced by the Fire Element say about you?

You're energetic, passionate and strong-willed.

You inspire others with your charisma, courage, creativity, wisdom and intuition, helping them to believe that it's possible for dreams to come true.

Your natural tendency is to be joyful, and to delight in the company of others.

On the other hand, when you're out of balance, you may become over-excited, experience mild anxiety symptoms or have difficulty sleeping.

土

EARTH

SPLEEN | STOMACH

The Earth element in TCM is associated with the spleen and stomach organs. It governs functions related to transformation and transportation of food and nutrients, as well as nurturing and grounding qualities.

What does being influenced by the Earth Element say about you?

You're solid, dependable and a loyal friend who excels at forming long-term relationships and deep connections with others. No wonder people regard you as so caring, compassionate and giving.

You value peace, harmony and stability in all things, and you're often found in a mediation or peace-making role, helping others resolve their differences and arrive at the middle ground.

However, when you're out of balance, you might find yourself prone to confusion, over-thinking, giving so much to others that you wear yourself out, craving sweets, or experiencing digestive problems.

Red beans support digestive health by aiding digestion, regulating gut function, and preventing digestive issues like bloating. Rich in fibre and antioxidants, red beans promote a healthy gut microbiome and protect the stomach lining from inflammation.

METAL

LUNGS | LARGE INTESTINE

The Metal element in TCM is associated with the lungs and large intestine organs. It governs functions related to respiration, elimination, and the exchange of Qi (energy) between the body and the external environment.

What does being influenced by the Metal Element say about you?

Like many metals, you're equipped with profound inner strength.

You're known for your high level of personal integrity, your disciplined, rational approach to life, and your appreciation of beauty.

You're at your best when things feel rational, organised and structured, and when you take a healthy approach to processing the events that have happened in your life and letting them go.

Disorder and chaos are not to your liking at all, and you may become overly critical at times, especially when you perceive that others are breaking the rules or not doing things the 'right' way.

水

WATER

KIDNEYS | BLADDER

The Water element in TCM is associated with the kidneys and urinary bladder organs. It governs functions related to water metabolism, storage of essence (Jing), and the regulation of fluids in the body.

What does being influenced by the Water Element say about you?

You have strong willpower, a determined nature, and a tendency to be self-sufficient and independent.

You're a seeker of knowledge and understanding, not only of the world around you, but also about yourself and what makes you tick.

As a result, you bring sharp, critical thinking to the issues you're faced with, ask insightful questions, and express yourself skilfully.

On the other hand, you can sometimes be so introspective and focused on your inner world that you become withdrawn from others or speak before you think, without realising that what you're about to say may ruffle a few feathers! You may also be prone to becoming fearful.
